Dan Schwab broke the 4 way tie for low gross shooting a great 37 this week! Looks like the league officers won't go thirsty after all! Three less dozen golf balls can buy a lot of beer! One more week to see if someone can steal one of the low net spots at the very end.

News

There is no truth to the rumor that the handicapper purposely printed out the cards with the back nine holes to create a buzz in the clubhouse. Apparently Romeo rushed Pete by giving him an ultimatum by stating that he needed the cards by 12:30 if Pete wanted him to bring the cards to the course. I see future president qualities in Romeo so keep that in mind when you vote at the EOY! Pete was in such a rush to print them up before heading down to the lab, he only verified the lineup changes, and never looked at the actual setup of the cards. Since we played the back last week, I guess that the program was still set to the "back". The most amazing part of this story is that the majority of players (I can't vouch for all – I just assumed this since the scores were on the web so quick) knew we were playing the front nine, actually had the brain capacity to get a GVCC scorecard and mark the handicap holes correctly on the misprinted cards for the front nine, and actually scored their matches correctly! Now if you could only learn to print legibly and perform simple addition, I'd really be impressed.

Team 3 has essentially sewn up 1st place for the 2nd half taking 40 against Team 7. Team 1 lost ground on Team 3 but extended their 2nd place lead and will make it very difficult for Team 7 to catch them and meet their goal of winning both halves. Team 1 has a bye in Week 18 so Team 7 needs 47.5 points to tie them and secure a spot in the playoffs (Team 7 beat them head to head in Week 13). All others are for all intent and purposes out of it. Teams 8 and 6 had a chance going into Week 17 but were crushed by their opponents with them scoring 29.5 and 25 respectively. Team 4 came on strong with a manipulated lineup and Hassan and Bisci taking Latourette and Leblanc to the woodshed with a 16-2 score over Team 6. Latourette can whine all he wants about his handicap going down – it wouldn't have mattered. And Team 8 just couldn't get it done against the League of Extraordinary Gentleman. But based on Team 4's stupendous performance. Team 2 finds itself looking up at all the other teams and are firmly entrenched in the last spot. Rumor has it that they have already got their boarding passes for Florida for their all expenses paid golf clinic for coming in last place.

And what spun up Lawrence "Loudpants" Gallagher this week? Apparently he had a vendetta against the 9th tee box. On 6, his second shot landed there and came close to the group on the tee. On 8, his drive hit the cart path and went screaming past the group sitting on the bench on the 9th tee. Could it be that he had nothing against hole 9 but something against the league officers since there was one officer in each of the foursomes he attacked?

Notes:

News on the End Of Year tournament should be coming out shortly. Keep an eye out for a flyer and in Hot News on the web page. You might want to start planning your foursomes. I REALLY, REALLY Mean it this time!

Captains should e-mail the handicapper, Pete Michno, no later than 1100 Thursday to give their line-ups. However, I'm sure the handicapper would appreciate Captains providing the line-ups earlier if you have them set. 1100 on Thursday should be the exception, not the rule.

Captains should inform all retirees and non-NUWC members on their teams to use the website for all League information.

Slow Play Watch:

Getting too late in the season to complain about this. If you haven't gotten it by now, you never will.

Joke of the Week

Club Selection

For most of the round the golfer had argued with his caddy about club selection, but the caddy always prevailed.

Finally on the 17th hole, a 185-yard par three into the wind, the caddy handed the golfer a 4-wood and the golfer reacted.

"I think it's a 3-iron," said the golfer.

"No, sir it's a 4-wood," said the caddy.

"Nope, it's definitely a 3-iron."

So the golfer set up, took the 3-iron back slowly, and struck the ball perfectly. It tore through the wind, hit softly on the front of the green, and rolled up two feet short of the pin.

"See," said the caddy. "I told you it wasn't enough club."

Quote of the Week

"You can make a lot of money in this game. Just ask my ex -wives. Both of them are so rich that neither of their husbands works." - Lee Trevino
